Senator _____:

We are writing to you to express our support for the amendment of Section 230 Protection for private blocking and screening of offensive material. As a faith-based organization fighting human trafficking in the United States, we believe this amendment is a necessary part of our fight. We have read the changes proposed by Senator Rob Portman and agree that those changes will help stop the demand for human trafficking by shutting down a major breeding ground for this heinous crime. Please join us in support of the S.1693 Stop Enabling Sex Traffickers Act of 2017 so that we can save more vulnerable children and allow victims to receive peace of mind by knowing that justice has truly been served.

Sincerely,

The U.S. Institute Against Human Trafficking (USIAHT)

The Honorable _____:

We are writing to you to express our support for the amendment of Section 230 Protection for Private Blocking and Screening of Offensive Material. The internet was never meant to be a legal slave auction. Attorney Generals across our nation have pleaded with Congress to amend Section 230 and it is finally happening. As a faith-based organization fighting human trafficking in the United States, we believe this amendment is a necessary part of our fight. We have read the changes proposed by Representative Ann Wagner and agree that those changes will help stop the demand for human trafficking by shutting down a major breeding ground for this heinous crime. Countless cases against Backpage.com have been lost due to how judges interpret Section 230. Now is the time for change. Please join us in support of H.R. 1865 Allow States and Victims to Fight Online Sex Trafficking Act of 2017 so that we can save more vulnerable children and allow victims to receive peace of mind by knowing that justice has truly been served.

Sincerely,

The U.S. Institute Against Human Trafficking (USIAHT)
